Vortex Other Dimension Music Festival/Fundraiser

in the Café of the Somerville Armory

The VOD Festival will bring to the stage many of the Vortex Series' past and future performers, in an evening of new encounters and dimension hopping.

Line-up includes: Todd Brunel, clarinets; Esther Viola, oboe; Rob Bethel, cello; Yael Bat-Shimon, violin; John McClellan drums and Peter Bloom, Bass flute; Matt Samolis, flute; Noell Dorsey, voice performing Tips by Steve Lacey

<http://improvortex.blogspot.com>

Listeners appreciate music on the edges, fringes or underground of improvised or notated modern music. While the shows span diverse musical styles and artistic disciplines the common factors are experimentation and spontaneity.

Ticket price is $10

Tell you friends and come enjoy a festive evening for great music and refreshments.

 Sage Stossel and Hilary Price explore creativity under the pressure of daily deadlines and rigid formal requirements. What impact do external structural demands have on the creative artist and on the work of art? Using the parameters of the daily cartoon strip and the graphic novel as models, they ask how formal rules change and develop as an art form grows, attracting new audiences and taking on new roles in the world of art.
