Cambridge Police Detectives Arrest Cocaine Dealer Near King Open Elementary School

June 28, 2010 – At approximately 7:30PM on June 28, 2010, Jeffrey Appolon, 24, of 63 Thingvalla Avenue in Cambridge, was arrested in the rear of the Roosevelt Towers by members of the Cambridge Police Special Investigations Unit within 1000 feet of the King Open Elementary School.

The Cambridge Police Department is grateful for the hard work of these detectives which led to Mr. Appolon's arrest. "We are very proud that a known drug dealer and a large amount of cocaine were removed from Cambridge city streets," said Police Commissioner Robert C. Haas.

Detectives from the Special Investigations Unit were in the area conducting surveillance in response to recent complaints of drug activity when they received information that an individual would be in the area with a large amount of cocaine. The detectives located this individual and, upon searching him, discovered approximately 50 grams of cocaine hidden in the waistband of his pants.

A digital scale disguised as a CD case and a Pringles potato chip container with a concealed compartment inside were also discovered.

Mr. Appolon was placed under arrest and transported to the Cambridge Police Station where he was booked for cocaine trafficking and a drug violation near a school/park.

Anyone with information about this arrest or other drug activity within the City of Cambridge is asked to please leave an anonymous crime tip on our website at http://www.cambridgema.gov/cpd/contact/mailform.cfm?email\_id=101 or contact our confidential drug tip hotline at (617) 349-3359.
