RE: File No. 7409 – Newspaper Microfilm Digitization and Metadata Creation
Addendum No. 1

The bid opening date has changed: Bids are now due on Monday, October 24, 2016 @ 11:00am.
Changed from Thursday, October 20, 2016

The following questions were submitted and answered (30).

Question

1. Would it be possible to receive some sample images for the digitization? We would just like to understand if this material is similar to what we have digitized previously. If possible, just a few images from the early and late years would be helpful.

Answer

Attached are examples of newspaper pages for both the Cambridge Tribune and Cambridge Chronicle. Please note that the Cambridge Chronicle images are from patron use microfilm and that the rolls the vendor will receive will be slightly better quality. New microfilm for both newspapers will be sent to the vendor.

Question

2. Whether companies from Outside USA can apply for this? (like, from India or Canada)

Answer

Yes, but your references must be from work done for clients within the U.S.

Question

3. Whether we need to come over there for meetings?

Answer

No

Question

4. Can we perform the tasks (related to RFP) outside USA? (like, from India or Canada)

Answer

Yes, provided that all of the deliverables are completed by May 1, 2017 and that additional shipping fees are covered in the proposal.

Question

5. Can we submit the proposals via email?

Answer

No. Please follow the directions referenced on page one of the Invitation for Bid.

Question

6. Can we get all 110 reels at one time?

Answer

Yes. The vendor will receive all 110 reels at one time.

Question

7. Will you be doing the upload to Veridian?

Answer

The vendor will work with Veridian to upload the images.

Question

8. Is experience with Veridian a requirement or helpful with winning this award?

Answer

Experience with Veridian is not a requirement.

Question

9. Are you asking for a perfect crop or can there be small amount of boarder?

Answer

The most important aspect is to ensure that the text at the edges of the page are captured. The white space at the edge of the page can serve as the border. In situations where the page is not flush to the edge, a border should be shown.

Question

10. When you say "Images to include visible edge" should we take that as you would want to see a small boarder in order to confirm complete page has been captured?

Answer

The most important aspect is to ensure that the text at the edges of the page are captured. The white space at the edge of the page can serve as a visible edge. In situations where the page is not flush to the edge a visible edge (for example a black background or border) should be shown.

Question

11. When you say "Eliminate duplicate frames" are you asking us to look at the content of each frame to insure there are no duplicates or are there some markers that let us know there are duplicates?

Answer

Duplicates should be eliminated. We are asking you to spot check to ensure there are no duplicate frames.

Question

12. Will we be able to obtain a sample?

Answer

This has been answered in response to question number 1

Question

13. Please explain in more detail - Zone articles, with skip articles joined in the METS file

Answer

This refers to the way the metadata is created to distinguish multiple articles on one page as well as allow for articles to be viewed and searched across several pages within Veridian, the content management system.

Question

14. Please explain in more detail - Tag article authors as printed

Answer

This refers to the metadata creation that encodes the name of the author for each article (where applicable) and allows those authors to be searched within Veridian, the content management system.

Question

15. Please explain in more detail - Zone photos, illustrations and advertisements

Answer

This refers to the metadata creation that distinguishes photos, illustrations, and advertisements for searchability and display within Veridian, the content management system.

Question

16. Please explain in more detail - Categorize objects as: articles, illustrations, and advertisements

Answer

This refers to metadata creation that distinguishes articles, illustrations, and advertisements for searchability and display within Veridian, the content management system.

Question

17. It appears that each newspaper must be identified by date. Approximately how many pages will be in each daily newspaper?

Answer

There are between 8 and 32 pages per issue. There is an estimated 8 pages per issue for the Cambridge Tribune and 20 pages per issue for the Cambridge Chronicle. Please note that this is just an estimate and that the length of each issue is not consistent.

Question

18. How are the newspapers separated within a roll of microfilm? Often rolls are "blipped", which means there is a blank separator image between each unique file or document (newspaper). Are these rolls blipped?

Answer

There is black space between each newspaper page. In later years, there is an image of the title and date between the pages of each issue. It is not consistent throughout.

Question

19. Is there any database or other finding aid that the city uses to identify which newspapers are found on which rolls?

Answer

No.

Question

20. Will out of state vendors be considered?

Answer

Yes.

Question

21. Is Fed Ex or other common courier an acceptable means of pick up and or Delivery?

Answer

Answer

Once; the library will release all 110 reels to the vendor at one time.

Question

24. Will the Vendor be responsible for packing the items for transport to the vendor facility for scanning?

Answer

No

Question

25. What is the maximum number of rolls that will be released at one time?

Answer

All 110 reels will be released by the library to the vendor at one time.

Question

26. What is the minimum number of rolls that will be released one time?

Answer

The library will release all 110 reels to the vendor at one time.

Question

27. What location(s) will the vendor need to pick up from and deliver to? Is it one location or more than one location?

Answer

One location.

Question

28. Will the vendor need to come and pick up the items, or is the County willing to ship to the Vendor?

Answer

The library will ship to the vendor. The vendor must provide prepaid shipping labels to the Library for delivery to vendor.

Question

29. Is this the first time the County is requesting these services? If not can the current contract be provided?

Answer

No, this is not the first time. Please see the most current contract for these services attached.

Question

30. Would the microfilm be 35mm unused 2nd generation negative microfilm or will they be copies that have been in use? This can make a big difference in the image quality and therefore the amount of work it takes to process.

Answer

The microfilm will be 35 mm unused 2nd generation positive microfilm.

Questions are now closed; all other details remain the same

"BUSINESS AT BAT" AT KENDALL SQUARE.

Rev. H. H. Crane, of Malden, Tells Members the Reason for Rise of Business Men to Present Position—24 New Members

Rev. Henry H. Crane, of Malden, gave the members of the Kendall Square Manufacturers' association his conception of the reasons for the rise of the modern business man during the past century at the luncheon Tuesday. He sketched the changes which business had seen, giving the reasons why the soldier, the politician, the statesman and the politician had failed to leave any permanent mark on the world during their reign.

He declared that the suggestion of Senator Borah of New Hampshire, that men be assembled to try to bring order out of chaos in Europe was one of the most amazing phenomena of the age as indicating that the business man was at last coming into high place in public esteem. A century ago it was considered low to be "in trade" and business men were looked down upon. Now the business man has it in his power to contribute in valuable ways to the solution of the problems of the world.

The reasons for this rise in public esteem in Dr. Crane's opinion, were three. First, the realization of the force of faith as evidenced by the growth of the credit system without which none of the great businesses could have come to their present growth. Business men changed their attitude toward their customers from suspicion to trust and the result has been a greater belief in human nature.

Second, the growth of co-operation which came about through the efforts of one's competitors and customers.

Third, the establishment of a code of ethics by which the Golden Rule and the ten commandments were translated into terms of modern business.

Fourth, by rendering service and not having as the ultimate goal the slightest dollar.

These four reasons, have leveled the whole lot of business and, if held to by the average business man, will maintain the business man as a whole high in public esteem.

Secretary Morley reported that the new membership classes, under the leadership of Peter Gray, had brought in the following 24 new members: William Hastings, Peter Gray & Sons; Arthur B. Ritchie, Clement E. Swertz, Marcy Frisling Co.; Frank F. Reilly, George T. Bowers, Richard N. Harnett, Carl L. Blanchard, Suffolk Engraving Co.; Thomas J. Verley, Cambridge; Leo Co.; W. J. Bird, T. W. Good, J. Manufacturers National Bank; Harry F. Carter, John M. Carter, Industrial Metal Inc.; George A. Gore, N. E. Tel. & Tel. Co.; Frank E. Cassidy, Harry L. Reed, the Middle Co.; George H. Dawson, Gregory Bureau; Samuel L. Ginsburg, Cambridge; Henry J. Shaw, Evelyn J. Mitchell, Page & Shaw, Inc., Chairman Gray, given an ovation.

Mayor Curley will speak before the association at a time to be announced soon. Frank Schifano has contributed a set of couple of rubber plants for the adornment of the luncheon room. Any other contributions will be gratefully received if sent F. O. B. Kendall square.

UNTIMELY DEATH OF CHESTER C. BULLEN

Cambridge Born and a Product of Rindge He Had Made Rapid Strides in Banking Field in Past Few Years—Funeral Tuesday, St. James's Church

Chester C. BulLEN, president of the Merchants National bank of Worcester and formerly deputy governor of the Federal Reserve bank of Boston, died suddenly early Sunday morning at his home in Worcester.

He and Mrs. BulLEN returned Saturday on a trip to New York and he retired apparently in good health. A few hours later his wife was awakened and found that he had passed away. He had been subject to a disordered heart for several years.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at St. James's church. More than 300 friends and business associates of Mr. BulLEN attended the service. The church was filled with many wreaths and floral pieces, and baskets and clusters of gladioli, roses, chrysanthemums, asters, carnations and pansies. Among them were floral tributes from Amicable Lodge, P. & A. M., Aquatic council, Royal Academy, the officers of the Federal Reserve bank and from the Federal Reserve society. The casket was covered with roses and palms.

Rev. F. M. Paddock read the Episcopal service for the burial of the dead. R. J. Brown, the organist, played "The Willows," "Lead Kindly Light," and Chopin's "March Funere." There were no eulogies or honorary pallbearers. Interment was in Cambridge cemetery.

Funeral services were conducted at Mr. BulLEN's home, 30 Institute road, Worcester, early Tuesday morning by Rev. Shepley Knapp, pastor of the Central Congregational church. The casket was covered with a blanket of red roses, during the service. The gift of the officers and directors of the Merchants National bank of Worcester.

Mr. BulLEN was born in this city in 1881 and attended the grammar schools and Rindge Technical school. He then became a clerk in the Eliot National bank and later in the Merchants National bank when the two institutions merged. He then went into business for himself and in 1917 he returned to the banking business in 1914 when he was elected vice president. In 1919 he was appointed deputy governor. In June of this year he was elected president of the Merchants National bank of Worcester and had been in charge of that institution only about a month.

He is survived by his widow who was Miss Isabel D. Pease, of Somerville, two sons and a daughter. He was a member of Amicable Lodge, P. & A. M. and Aquatic Council of Worcester, both of which he had made his home at Wellington Hills.

CARDINAL O'CONNELL OFFICIATES AT PAROCHIAL SCHOOL DEDICATION

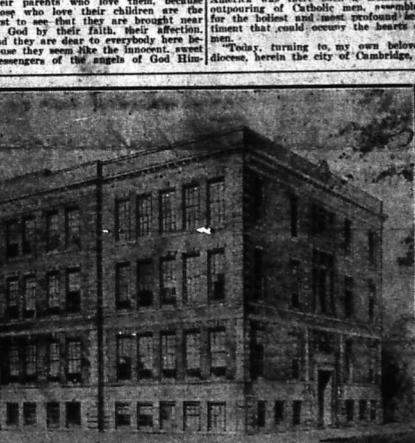

New Edifice of Blessed Sacrament Parish Consecrated with Appropriate Ceremonies Last Sunday Afternoon, in Presence of a Large Throng

With impressive ceremonies in which Cardinal O'Connell took the leading part, the new parochial school of the Blessed Sacrament parish was dedicated Sunday afternoon in the presence of over 2000 members of the parish and interested citizens. Following the dedication of the school the cardinal and his attendants held services in the church where a large congregation was present.

Rev. John A. Butler, pastor of the Blessed Sacrament parish, welcomed the cardinal at Harvard bridge and, accompanied by the Blessed Sacrament caulets and a procession of over 1000 men of the parish, led the parade up Massachusetts avenue to Maguire and Lake streets. Capt. John J. Conroy, of station 2, headed the police detail.

As the procession approached the school building, the members formed two lines through which the cardinal proceeded to the hall of the new building where he was greeted by the school children of the parish. The boys wore white blouses and red neckties with their suits and the girls were dressed in white with red bows. A group of little girls welcomed him to the school and the cardinal responded as follows:

"Thank you, dear children, for your beautiful and touching welcome. Our Blessed Lord loved nothing so much as the little children. He loved sinners. He came on earth to bring them back to God. But he saw in the sweet faces of innocent children the image of the holiness of God, and so they were very dear to Him always. He loved them dearly. He looked upon them as the messengers of God to their parents in the world, to their parents who love them, because those who love their children are the first to see that they are brought near to God by their parents' affection, and they are dear to everybody here because they seem like the innocent, sweet messengers of the angels of God. Him-

REV. JOHN A. BUTLER

"It seems only yesterday that, standing in the tribune of the treasury building at Washington, my eyes wandered down the full length of Pennsylvania avenue, at the end of which is the glorious dome of the Capitol; and all down that long distance, through a fine mist of rain, poured the hundred thousands of Catholic men, here in the nation's capital, to reaffirm their love for Jesus Christ and their loyalty to their flag. In this country there never has been such a sight before; never in America was there such a tremendous outpouring of Catholic men, assembled for the holiest and most profound sentiment that could occur the hearts of men."

FILING STATION ON WELLINGTON ESTATE

One Objector Before License Board Monday Calls It "Waste of Time" To Protest—Hearing Held On Complaints Against Liquor Resorts

Councillor John W. Lyons, of ward 3, championed the interests of Petitioner Thomas F. Donnelly, a lawyer of 277 Washington ave., Newton, for a filling station on the estate of the late Mrs. Sarah Fisher Wellington, at Massachusetts ave. and Lee st., in ward 4, at the hearing by the license board Monday afternoon.

Councillor Lyons presented the board with a photograph of what he described as a "modern filling station" bearing the name of the Colonial Gas company. That company, he said, would erect and conduct the proposed improvement on the above already dignified with countless similar enterprises. The board listened attentively while Councillor Lyons promised a building that would add $25,000 above the present value of the land to the city of $300 or $400. Because of the large number of vacant lots along the Wellington property was good for nothing but a filling station.

A letter without a business head, signed by Harold L. Niles, agent for the House of Representatives, representing the apartment house property on the opposite corner of Lee st., was also quoted as "not opposed."

"Wasted Opposition"
Dr. Walter C. Feeler, of 850 Massachusetts ave., accompanied by Mrs. Feeler, told the board frankly that he did not appear merely with the desire to criticize the judgment, activities he felt that the board should be made to oppose the petition of Mr. Donnelly, of Newton, was a "waste of time" and that he would not appear at the hearing of the board Monday afternoon.

Dr. Thomas E. Cunningham, of 817 Massachusetts ave., a resident there for 15 years, protested that he had proposed a filling station site at Lee st. and Wellington st. which he felt was a "waste of time" and that he would not appear at the hearing of the board Monday afternoon.

Dr. Thomas E. Cunningham, of 817 Massachusetts ave., a resident there for 15 years, protested that he had proposed a filling station site at Lee st. and Wellington st. which he felt was a "waste of time" and that he would not appear at the hearing of the board Monday afternoon.

BOY SCOUT ACTS Past, Present and Future

By Scout Executive Christopher Gundersen

Almy Shield Contest
An important meeting of all scoutmasters of the Cambridge council will be held at the home of Commissioner L. V. Bockman on Tuesday evening, May 8, at 8 o'clock for the 1934 Almy Shield contest which was won last year by a Troop 4 patrol in the charge of Patrol Leader Willis Shapley will be discussed. Besides winning the shield it is proposed to award to the two patrols winning the most number of points at this year's Almy Shield contest and the contest next year the honor of representing the Cambridge council in the huge National Almy Shield Contest.

A group of troop 10 scouts, under the leadership of Scoutmaster E. W. DeLong, spent last week end at Camp Quinapoxet. Scout Executive Gundersen has recently visited Troops 4, 11 and 17, Troop 4 located in the St. John's school on Hingde ave. and under the leadership of Scoutmaster John Skinner is enjoying a very healthy growth. Friday evening the scouts in the troop will present a play that has been written by Mr. Skinner and Troop Commissioner Thomas Fitzgerald. William Haverty of Troop 4 has Boy Scout jamboree to be held in Washington during the summer of 1935. Plans for the National Jamboree have been made by Scout Executive Gundersen who has invited more than 100,000 scouts to the jamboree. The jamboree will be held at the Washington camp of the government. All camping at the Jamboree will be done by patrol and for this reason the Cambridge officials are particularly anxious to see the new "Almy Shield" contest as a real preparation for the patrol that will go to Washington from this city.

Quinapoxet Campers
Although the complete plans for this summer's program at Quinapoxet and the entire staff has not as yet been made, the scout program has been devised and will offer many opportunities for Cambridge scouts to receive credit toward leadership training and enjoy as never before the natural advantages of this year's special camp at Quinapoxet. It is making arrangements to conduct the first week of the season. Every scoutmaster and patrol leader of his patrol leaders as possible to learn how to make their own tents, practice and cooking utensils as well as conduct their own patrol on patrol hikes. All the patrol leaders will live on the Point and will enjoy a special program. Russell E. Bradley who will be in charge of handcrafts will complete the complete program will be awarded special badges. One week will be known as "Mystery Week" during which period there will be a real mystery to be solved by every camper.

Another week's canoe trip and another trip into the White Mountains are planned for Monday, August 12, the second annual cruise will be presented. Local scoutmaster will be making a trip to take advantage of the Quinapoxet Vacation Club Savings plan. Scouts will be completing a one week reduction in the camp fees over last year's rates.

CITY EMPLOYEES SAY GOODBYE TO MISS HARRIET F. MILLIGAN

She Retired Saturday From Her Position As Assistant Superintendent of the Cambridge Water Works, After Serving the Department For 48 Years—Presented With Gifts and Felicitations

Everybody in city hall visited the office of the water board last week Saturday, to say goodbye to Miss Harriet F. Milligan, who on that date retired after a faithful service of 48 years. There were gifts of flowers and candy, accompanied by expressions of deep regret at her leaving, and best wishes for the future.

A retiring case was presented by the following of the water board staff: Supt. Timothy W. Good, Margaret Grant, Robert Kane, John T. Leach, Robert E. Martin, Jeremiah Nolan, Clara H. Nover, William J. O'Brien, Manoel Anderson, William Bourke, Harry A. Berninbaum and James Carberry.

Miss Milligan, according to Supt. Good, is the only woman in the United States who has ever held the title of assistant superintendent of a municipal water works department. It adds that Miss Milligan is also the best informed woman in the country concerning water department affairs.

Ultimate TB Control A Definite Promise Says Dr. Felix McGirr

Dr. Felix McGirr, superintendent of the Cambridge Tuberculosis hospital, retiring Saturday on the 10th anniversary of his appointment as a Philadelphia physician that within 10 or 15 years all hospitals for tuberculosis patients will have to close because of lack of patients, said that waiting lists in every New England tuberculosis hospital will be longer than statistics of the state of the disease.

However, the disease has steadily and substantially declined in New Zealand in the past 50 years, Dr. McGirr said, and eventually will probably be as well controlled as smallpox. The most notable feature of progress toward tuberculosis control, he said, is the diminishing death rate.

An explanation for the continued demand for hospitalization by tuberculars, despite the decline in the disease, Dr. McGirr said, is found in the increasing number of victims who now avail themselves of sanatorium treatment. This is also a factor in keeping the mortality rate, which has proved effective in reducing the prevalence of the disease.

Occasional sporadic spots in the number of tuberculosis cases are caused, Dr. McGirr believes, by special factors: such as a nation-wide movement to reduce weight among young people. Folds are getting more nose, however, he feels, and the medical profession does not anticipate a renewal of these periodic increases.

Ultimate control of the disease is a definite promise, Dr. McGirr declared, and in the immediate future may be virtually eradicated; but for the present there is still great need for hospital facilities, as being their children to health, and the recent demand in the legislature for additional beds in the Middlesex county sanatorium, built only two years ago, but not adequate for the needs of the people of the county, despite the many other private and public institutions.

Mrs. Brooks Succeeds Mrs. Lois Rantoul As State ERA Director

Mrs. Jessie W. Brooks, widow of ex-Mayor William F. Brooks, and a member of the school committee, was last Friday appointed by State Administrator Joseph E. Garvey, 86 the ERA of Massachusetts, to succeed Mrs. Lois Rantoul as director of women's activities.

Mrs. Brooks, who has been working since December as a special investigator of women's work under the investigating department of the ERA, headed by Mrs. J. Power, would make no comment on plans or policies of her new office.

"I feel that I have had a very interesting post and am acquainted with the work from my experience in Mr. Power's department," she said.

Mrs. Rantoul, in commenting on her former retirement, said: "I have tried to work in perfect harmony with everybody. I have worked without pay to try and aid the women of Massachusetts and I am decidedly not a politician."

Daylight Saving
Daylight Saving began at 2 a. m. Sunday morning. Transportation facilities went into operation on new schedules at that time. Train schedules have been adjusted as steam railroads continue to operate on Eastern Standard time, in accordance with the federal law. 29 Council Candidates Will Definitely Be On Ballot, 10 School Board

Cambridge voters in the municipal election in November are assured of a small ballot in the contests for City Council and School Committee seats, since thus far the papers of 29 council candidates and 10 School Committee aspirants have been certified by the Election Commission and their names will definitely appear on the ballot.

Back in 1941, at the first city election under Plan E, there were 30 Council candidates and 28 School Committee contestants. Two years ago the number dwindled and 30 persons sought election to the Council and only 17 to the School Committee. At the most, therefore, this year's Council test will have no more than 30 Council seekers and the School Committee 15.

Shuttles here till fall

By Sarah Andrews
CHRONICLE STAFF

Carolina Garcia summed up her experience on the Lechmere Green Line shuttle bus in two words: slow and crowded.

Some commuters admitted Tuesday to being used to the shuttle, which runs from Government Center to Lechmere, but others lamented that the less-than-ideal travel conditions will persist for a few months longer.

Though slated for completion last month, the Green Line Relocation Project has been pushed that back until early fall, according to an MBTA official. The project, which will put North Station completely underground and construct a new viaduct out to Lechmere, began in June 2004.

The project was supposed to shut down the Lechmere and Science Park stations for one year, and partially closed train service to North Station.

"For those of us who have to take this shuttle, it's not funny," said Garcia, who lives in Rosindale, but takes the bus occasionally. "For the people who live here, it's not funny."

Joe Pesaturo, spokesman for the MBTA, said last week that problems reconstructing a

Alexander Pring-Wilson, the former Harvard graduate student convicted of the 2003 manslaughter of Cambridgeport resident Michael Colono, was released on $400,000 bail last Friday and escorted from court by his mother, stepfather and lawyers.

According to his bail terms, Pring-Wilson will be confined to his home for the duration of his next trial, will be subjected to random drug and alcohol testing and had to surrender his passport. No information has been released about where Pring-Wilson will be living. One of his attorneys, James Sultan, told the Chronicle Tuesday that he was afraid for his client's safety and security. "There's no need for anyone to know where he is except the courts, and they know where he is," he said.

Pring-Wilson

Two weeks ago, Middlesex Superior Court Judge Regina Quinlan granted Pring-Wilson, 27, a new trial. Referencing a March Supreme Judicial Court opinion, Quinlan, said Pring-Wilson should have been allowed to enter evidence regarding Colono's criminal background when pleading self-defense.

Doing their part for peace

Two Cambridge women have been nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize as part of the "1,000 peace women" project.

The nominations of Pleasant Street's Betty Burkes and Brattle Street's Swanee Hunt are symbolic, meant to highlight the daily work ordinary women do to build peace. The names of Burkes, Hunt and 998 women from around the world were marking the unveiling of the names.

"I'm deeply honored to be among the women here today," said Burkes, who, in addition to other peace-oriented work, coordinates the development of teaching tools for the New York-based Hague Appeal for Peace. She is also a member of the Cambridge Peace Commission. Burkes said creativity makes peace possible.

"If we can imagine it, we can build it," she said.

Hunt, director of the Women and Public Policy program at Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government, was unable to attend the ceremony because of a prior engagement, according to her spokesperson. Hunt is a former U.S. ambassador to Austria. Residents: District rules too rigid

By Chris Helms
CHRONICLE STAFF

Rebel homeowners are raising the flag of secession in an unlikely place — the placid streets of Avon Hill.

They're fed up with what they see as "capricious" rulings by an equally unlikely oppressor — the commissioners of the Avon Hill Neighborhood Conservation District. And 18 secessionists signed a petition to withdraw from the district.

"The rule for one house is not the rule for another. There's one rule for our houses and another rule for their friends' houses," said Nelson Gore of Raymond Street. "You can't win."

Residents who live in one of Cambridge's five conservation districts must get a certificate from the district commission in order to get a building permit. The rebels, who live on or near

Gore, for instance, built a ping-pong room over the objections of the commissioners, back before the commission gained "binding" power to halt projects of which it disapproved. Other neighbors have spent tens of thousands of dollars in architects' fees taking proposals back to a nay-saying commission.

A piece of Cambridge's past lives on in England

By Sarah Andrews
CHRONICLE STAFF

On St. Patrick's Day 1952, a boxy, silver eatery opened for business in North Cambridge.

In two weeks, the same diner will open across the Atlantic in Swadlincote, England.

Jeff Laight and Patricia Whitehouse are breathing new life into the eatery, which operated for nearly two decades as Murphy's Diner at 2525 Mass. Ave. The two found the abandoned, authentic American diner for sale on eBay last October. It was sitting in a neglected lot in Derby, England, about 24 miles north of their home and cost 8,500 pounds.

Though Laight admits he and his wife "must have been crazy," the longtime chefs decided to buy the 42-ton piece of history and haul it through several traffic-calming roundabouts to a piece of land on the outskirts

Uber driver linked to unsolved rapes
DNA evidence incriminates Boston man in string of Esplanade assaults

By Sara Fejo
sfejo@wickedlocal.com

An Uber driver arrested in December for the rape of a Cambridge woman has now been charged in connection with a string of previously unsolved sexual assaults along the Esplanade and in South Boston, according to police. Alejandro Done, 46, of Boston, is currently being held without bail after pleading not guilty to charges of rape, assault to rape, kidnapping and two counts of assault and kidnapping of a Cambridge woman, who he allegedly picked up outside her friend's Tremont Street home in Boston on Dec. 6, 2014.

On Tuesday, authorities obtained warrants charging Done with rape in connection with five sexual assaults that occurred along the Esplanade and in South Boston between 2006 and 2010, according to the Suffolk District Attorney's Office.

Done is currently facing two counts of rape for a 2006 incident in South Boston and a 2007 incident at the Esplanade, but additional charges, reflecting offenses during those and other attacks, are likely to

Fab Lab Hub prints 3-D hands for those in need

By Sara Fejo
sfejo@wickedlocal.com

Fab Lab Hub, a nonprofit digital fabrication laboratory in Kendall Square, is manufacturing prosthetic hands for kids and adults in need using a three-dimensional printer.

The organization, which is one of more than 500 Fab Labs worldwide, prints e-Nable hand designs that are then distributed to folks for free through Enabling the Future, a global network of volunteers.

The prosthetic hands are not meant for fine-motor control, but rather for simple tasks like riding a bike, throwing a ball or picking up a water bottle, according to founder Sarah Boisvert.

"They're things that make a big difference in people's lives. For a little kid to be able to ride a bike is a really big deal," Boisvert said in her office at the Cambridge Innovation Center. "It will improve their self-esteem."

Elected At Annual Meeting Tuesday Night - - - Succeeds Michael F. Scannell As Chairman Of Board

Sennott Elected Pres. Of Council

Councilor Francis L. Sennott of Ward 3 was elected president of the 1940 Cambridge City Council by defeating Councilor Thomas M. McNamara of Ward 2, with a vote of 9-6.

FRANCIS SENNOTT

McNamara had the election of Sennott declared unanimous following the first ballot at Monday's meeting.

Councilor Henry D. Winslow addressed the chair, presided over by Senior Councilor Francis J. Roche, nominating Councilor Sennott, and newly-elected Councilor M. Walter Madigan of Ward 11 seconded the nomination.

Winslow in his nomination speech declared his associations with Sennott had been pleasant during the past two years and characterized the nominee as a "grand fellow."

Roche then departed from the rostrum, handing the gavel over to Councilor John J. Toomey, and delivered a stirring address nominating Councilor McNamara. The McNamara nomination was seconded by Councilor John J. Tierney.

Voting for Councilor Sennott were Edward A. Crane, Daniel F. Finn, William M. Hogan, Jr., M. Walter Madigan, Haven Parker, Hyman Pill Francis L. Sennott, Michael A. Sullivan, and Henry D. Winslow.

Casting their vote for a fourth term for McNamara were Edward H. Donovan, Thomas McNamara, Francis J. Roche, John J. Tierney, John J. Toomey and Joseph M. Banks.

First In A Series Of Lectures To Be Given This Tuesday

The first of a series of four illustrated lectures on textiles to be given weekly during January at the Museum of Fine Arts will be presented on Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. by Miss Amy M. Sacker, who, as head of the Sacker School of Design and Interior Decoration, has had a wide following for many years. In this series Miss Sacker will take up textiles from the point of view of history and materials and will discuss the work of the Mediaeval and Renaissance periods, silks and satins, and contemporary textiles. These four lectures, the second group in a series on topics related to design in the home to be presented during the year, will be given in the lecture hall of the Boston Museum and may be subscribed to not only by individuals, but also by schools or by teachers for entire classes, or for groups of students. For schools making such arrangements, tickets will be available at half-rate. Tickets may also be procured for single lectures. Reservations should be made in advance, if possible, with the Disipion of instruction, since the number of tickets will be limited to the seating capacity of the lecture hall.

Mr. Frederick B. Robinson, Assistant to the Director at the Boston Museum, will present four lectures in February on Wall Coverings, surveying the subject historically and giving in his last lecture a study of contemporary wall coverings. The last series, to be given in March on Lighting will include a historical survey on lighting from ancient times to the 18th century of Mr. Richard Howland of Wellesley College, with a final lecture on modern lighting by Professor Stanley McCandless of Yale University.

We can do more good by being good, than in any other way.—Rowland Hill

Tuesday evening, at the annual election, John A. Spencer of Aberdeen avenue was named chairman of the Cambridge Park Board.

Spencer, a Boston newspaperman, succeeds Michael F. Scannell, who has been chairman of the group for the past year. The new chairman was appointed to the board by Mayor John W. Lyons two years ago.

Spencer was nominated to the chairmanship by Maurice Corkery, with Joseph Guiney concurring. He received the votes of Mrs. Jessie W. Brooks, John J. McBride, Sam Pill, Jeremiah Coughlin, Corkery and Guiney. Retiring Chairman Scannell remarked as the vote was taken:

"I guess I don't have to vote do I?"

Mrs. Brooks nominated Coughlin, a former chairman of the board, at the first stage of the meeting, but Coughlin refused to be a candidate for the post he held for many years.

The new chairman read a request from the Civil Service Commission asking for all names, ratings, duties and salaries of employees of the park department. This request was tabled until the next meeting.

A requisition to the Civil Service Commission for the names of three tree climbers and two matrons of the death of John Brennan, care-nell, was tabled for further study.

The board was officially notified of the death of John Brennan, caretaker of the Russell E. Hoyt field playground, who died during the Christmas holidays. His death leaves a second vacancy to be filled by the board, but no action will be taken until the next meeting.
