Digital Equity Research Project – Understanding the Cambridge Divide

The City of Cambridge (“the City”) is seeking proposals from qualified proposers to study and analyze gaps affecting the City’s low-income or otherwise disadvantaged population in use of the broadband internet. The City seeks to partner with a consultant or consultant team (“Consultant”) to research and better understand the gaps—including those related to broadband access, affordability, digital skills, and device ownership—that may be preventing residents from making the most effective, meaningful use of broadband.

Cambridge is a densely populated, demographically and economically diverse city with a population of over 113,000, comprising 6.25 square miles, located to the north of the Charles River across from the City of Boston. Home to Harvard University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge is also home to many large and small businesses and non-profit institutions.

The City undertook a substantial research effort through its Broadband Task Force from 2014 to 2016, including a randomized telephone survey of 403 City residents. In 2016, when the Broadband Task Force concluded its work, the body advocated that a second phase of City research should include a deep examination of digital equity issues. To that end, the City is seeking to carry out a methodology for a research project (“Methodology”) that would assist the City to understand the inequities and challenges in broadband in Cambridge and to serve as a basis for the development of an actionable plan to address those challenges.

Summary of Types of Data to Be Collected

The City is seeking to deploy a Methodology designed to enable collection of data that will illuminate to what degree factors, such as lack of access to affordable broadband service, lack of access to usable broadband-enabled devices, and lack of knowledge (or “literacy”) of how to use the internet in ways that are meaningful or valuable to the user, are present in Cambridge, how they relate to each other, and how they can be alleviated through targeted strategies designed to provide service access, devices, and training and support.

The Consultant on this research project should collect the following types of data:

1. Broadband service availability, pricing, and competition;
2. Broadband adoption rates and patterns;
3. Means by which community members access the internet (e.g., wireline and/or mobile) and the reasons for that choice or outcome;
4. Use of broadband subsidy programs such as Comcast’s Internet Essentials and the Federal Communications Commission’s (FCC) Lifeline program;
5. Access to broadband-enabled devices, knowledge of how to use those devices, and challenges with use (for example, viruses, maintenance costs);

6. Broadband “literacy,” or degree of knowledge of how to use the internet in ways that the user finds meaningful, useful, and safe; and,
7. Need for foreign language or culturally specific training to develop knowledge of how to use the internet.

Summary of Methodology for Data Collection

The Consultant should describe how they propose to carry out a Methodology, which shall include the following general categories of research:

- Group Discussions
 - Work with the City team to hold approximately 14 discussion groups with diverse segments of the City’s population, focused on those groups the City seeks to support with this initiative. The purpose of these discussions will be to learn about the digital challenges faced by various demographic, ethnic, and income groups.
 - The information collected in these community meetings should help inform the design of a face-to-face survey.
- Face-to-Face Survey
 - Develop and conduct a face-to-face survey of a sample of the relevant communities the City seeks to support and serve through this process. The questions used in this face-to-face survey will be informed by consultation with the City team and the discussion group sessions. The goal of these efforts is to seek insights on barriers to adoption and effective use of broadband and broadband-enabled devices.
 - The face-to-face survey should be conducted by a professional survey team, accompanied by City team members, when appropriate, to overcome language, cultural, or other barriers. The City team will also be central to administration of the face-to-face survey.
 - The sample size and selection methodology should have sufficient size to provide statistically valid data and conclusions, segmented by ethnic/language group to provide the City specific insights regarding the needs of particular communities within Cambridge.
- Mail-Based, Scientific Survey
 - Develop and perform a mail-based survey of a sample of the entire City population to provide a benchmark on basic questions related to internet access and usage, against which data from the relevant population will be compared.

- This survey must be a statistically valid survey that can provide a baseline for measuring changes going forward, including the impact of City efforts and interventions.
- Like the face-to-face survey, the mail-based survey should be designed to gather data on barriers to accessing and using broadband, computers and other devices, and online resources. The questions should also be designed to clarify what kinds of training might be helpful, and if there exist language or cultural barriers to digital learning.
- FCC Pricing and Service Data
 - Collect and analyze FCC Form 477 data, which consist of ISP-reported broadband availability and adoption levels by census tract and compare this information to City-provided demographic data to see (to the extent the data allow) whether available service levels are equitable across all City neighborhoods.
 - Obtain and analyze data from the FCC Form 481, a document that telephone companies receiving certain subsidies are required to file. Form 481 may include some Verizon DSL pricing data that could provide insights to the City.
- Consumer Pricing and Service Data
 - Gather data on utilization by City residents of Comcast's Internet Essentials service and the FCC's Lifeline subsidy for broadband service.
 - Conduct online and phone research to determine what services are available from service providers, and at what price, in various parts of the City.
 - Conduct a first-of-its-kind effort at collecting non-personally identifiable information data on residential broadband bills from City residents—to develop empirical data regarding what consumers are paying, what services they receive, how pricing may differ among customers, and to what extent City residents use data-only plans or take bundled plans with video. This otherwise hard-to-obtain data can be powerful in helping to understand broadband utilization in Cambridge.
- Conduct Expert Interviews
 - To gain additional insight about how the City's findings compare with those of other communities and to learn about successful interventions undertaken in other cities, the Methodology should include conducting interviews with academics and city practitioners who are either studying or working on implementing digital equity plans elsewhere in the United States.

This Methodology will be overseen by a City project lead and the research will be supported by a City Manager-appointed advisory board staffed in part by academic experts. This board will help provide expert advice on methods and on eventual City interventions. For many important reasons, including the need to be able to assure survey subjects that their data will be kept confidential and their privacy will be respected, the Consultant will work with the City to proceed in a manner to develop and clearly disclose strategies being used to protect personally identifiable information.

The purpose of this Methodology—with its data collection, community meetings, surveys, and interviews—is to identify problems relating to digital equity in Cambridge and to inform the development of recommended City interventions and other potential solutions. However, it is important to note that the Methodology should not presuppose what the data will show or what the recommendations should be. Rather, the goal is to gather the most robust data possible.

But once the data are in hand, the Consultant, working closely with the City Team and City Manager-appointed advisory board, should use these data to develop and propose solutions and include these solutions in the final digital equity study. We anticipate that as problems are identified, potential strategies for City intervention will also emerge, especially given the valuable and regular input of experts on the City Manager’s advisory board.

Project Timeline

The following is a proposed timeline for a 12-month study process to be conducted by the City’s Consultant. This process is designed to proceed logically and methodically, provide the City with incremental deliverables, and allow for the development of recommendations along the way.

Month 1: Hold kickoff meeting with the City Manager’s advisory board, develop list of needed City data sources, and deliver final mail-based survey language to the City.

Month 2: Send out mail-based survey to sample of all City residents to gather baseline data.

Month 3: Conduct research on FCC pricing and service data (and consumer pricing and service data) and deliver a report to the City. This report should include an analysis of the use of subsidized internet access programs by City residents, highlighting possible gaps in adoption.

Months 4 and 5: Together with the City team, convene 14 community meetings and deliver summary reports (and a synthesis report) from these meetings to the City. Interview experts and deliver summary report from these interviews to the City.

Month 6: Drawing on insights from all research conducted to this point, develop face-to-face survey script (to include final language on broadband data-collecting methods), review with advisory board, and deliver the final script for approval by the City.

Months 7 and 8: Conduct face-to-face survey with target population and deliver the resulting data—including data from broadband bills—to the City.

Month 9: Convene meeting with the advisory board to review all datasets and guide the process of writing a final digital equity study, with the goal of including recommended City interventions and other proposed solutions.

Month 10: Develop and deliver draft of digital equity study, highlighting problem areas and recommended solutions.

Month 11: Revise report as directed by the City Manager, produce final report, and attend public meetings or other events as requested.

Month 12: Convene two additional meetings with the City team, advisory board and other community stakeholders to assist the City in communicating the study findings and implementing recommended interventions.

Process and Team

The City will enter into a contract with one prime vendor, which may be a person, corporation, a partnership, or a joint venture (“Consultant Team”). The Project will be managed by the Director of Communications and 311. The proposal must demonstrate that the Consultant Team members have the specific experience outlined in this request. A Consultant Team Leader for the Project must be designated in the proposal. The City reserves the right to reject proposed Consultant Team member(s), without rejecting the RFP.

Deliverables

An overall Methodology work plan and timeline for partnering with the City Team and the City Manager-appointed advisory board.

The final deliverable should be a digital equity analysis report that summarizes the findings and recommends strategic approaches and roadmaps of concrete actions for the City’s consideration. The report shall include all the data analysis and insights developed in the earlier tasks as well as a series of recommendations—short, medium, and long-term—addressing the challenges and gaps identified by the research in those tasks. The deliverable shall be a substantial body of work, designed to serve as a roadmap for efforts that can be undertaken by both public and private sectors to address digital inequities. The report shall also be designed to serve as a baseline for understanding the current state in Cambridge and for measuring improvements in the future.

(b) Amount of wage. The Living Wage shall be calculated on an hourly basis and shall be no less than $10.00, subject to adjustment as provided herein. The Living Wage shall be upwardly adjusted each year no later than March first in proportion to the increase at the immediately preceding December 31 over the year earlier level of the Annual Average Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers (CPI -U) Boston-Lawrence-Salem, MA - NH, as published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, United States Department of Labor applied to $10.00.

2.121.040 Waivers and Exceptions.

(a) Waivers. A Covered Employer may request that the City Manager grant a partial or whole waiver to the requirements of this Chapter.

(b) General Waivers. Waivers may be granted where application of this Chapter to a particular form of Assistance is found by the City Solicitor to violate a specific state or federal statutory, regulatory or constitutional provision or provisions, and the City Manager approves the waiver on that basis.

(c) Hardship Waivers for certain not-for-profit employers. An employer, who has a contract with the City of Cambridge which is not subject to the provisions of G.L. c. 30B, may apply to the City Manager for a specific waiver where payment of the Living Wage by a not-for-profit Covered Employer would cause a substantial hardship to the Covered Employer.

(d) Chapter 30B contract waivers. Prior to issuing an invitation for bids for a procurement contract subject to the provisions of G.L. c. 30B, any Applicable Department may apply to the City Manager for a waiver of the application of the Living Wage to the contract where payment of the Living Wage by a Covered Employer would make it inordinately expensive for the City to contract for the services or would result in a significant loss of services, because the contracted work cannot be segregated from the other work of the Covered Employer.

(e) General Waiver Request Contents. All General Waiver requests shall include the following:

- (1) The nature of the Assistance to which this Chapter applies;
- (2) The specific or official name of the Assistance and Assistance program, the statutory or regulatory authority for the granting of the Assistance, and a copy of that authority;
- (3) The conflicting statutory, regulatory, or constitutional provision or provisions that makes compliance with this Chapter unlawful, and a copy of each such provision; and
- (4) A factual explication and legal analysis of how compliance with this Chapter would violate the cited provision or provisions, and the legal consequences that would attach if the violation were to occur.

(f) Hardship Waiver Request Contents. All Hardship Waiver requests shall include the following:

- (2) A detailed explanation of why payment of the Living Wage would cause a substantial hardship to the Covered Employer; and
- (3) A statement of proposed wages below the Living Wage.

(g) Chapter 30B Contract Waiver Request Contents. A Chapter 30B contract waiver request shall include the following:

- (1) The nature of the Assistance to which this Chapter applies;
- (2) A detailed explanation of why the contracted work cannot be segregated from the other work of the bidding Covered Employers thereby making the cost of the contract with the payment of the Living Wage inordinately expensive or would result in a significant loss of services;

(h) Community Advisory Board review and recommendation regarding waiver requests. The Community Advisory Board, as described in Section 2.121.070 of this ordinance, shall consider waiver requests along with their supporting documentation and analysis, and may hold a public hearing to consider the views of the public before making a recommendation to the City Manager regarding the waiver request. For a hardship waiver, the Community Advisory Board shall offer an opportunity to be heard to employees of the Covered Employer. After reviewing the recommendation of the Community Advisory Board, the City Manager may approve and grant or deny all or part of a request. The City Manager may in his or her discretion grant a temporary hardship waiver pending the hearing before the Community Advisory Board. For Chapter 30B contract waivers, the Community Advisory Board shall make its recommendation to the City Manager no more than thirty days after it is notified of the request for a Chapter 30B contract waiver.

(i) Terms of exceptions. If an employer is subject to this Chapter as a result of its receipt of more than one kind of Assistance covered by this Chapter, and if the City Manager grants a waiver with respect to one form of Assistance, the City Manager need not find that this Chapter is inapplicable to the employer with respect to another form of Assistance received by the employer.

(j) Exceptions. The following positions will be excepted from the requirement of the payment of the Living Wage upon certification in an affidavit in a form approved by the Applicable Department and signed by a principal officer of the Covered Employer that the positions are as follows:

Complaints of alleged violations may also be filed by concerned citizens or by the City Council. Complaints of alleged violations may be made at any time, but in no event more than three years after the last date of alleged violation and shall be investigated promptly by the Applicable Department. (f) Remedies herein non-exclusive. No remedy set forth in this Chapter is intended to be exclusive or a prerequisite for asserting a claim for relief to enforce the right granted under this Chapter in a court of law. This Chapter shall not be construed to limit an employee's right to bring a common law cause of action for wrongful termination.

(g) Retaliation and discrimination barred. A Covered Employer shall not discharge, reduce the compensation or otherwise retaliate against any employee for making a complaint to the City, otherwise asserting his or her rights under this Chapter, participating in any of its proceedings or using any civil remedies to enforce his or her rights under the Chapter.
